General Considerations

Remarks

90 days seem to be like a very long time until you plan to depart. Be assured - it is not. Do everything that is sensible to do early as soon as you have the time to do it. It is far better to relax and be fully ready several days before departure than to depart with insufficient equipment or an aircraft that is not fully ready.

This is a guideline, not more. It is certainly not complete but it should help you to have the most important items ready in time. So please be critical and if you find important things missing make an appropriate note to be certain not to forget anything.

If you find something that, in your opinion, is not clear enough or perhaps incorrect, or if you have an addition, please write to Aero Explorer International at info@aeroexplorer.biz. This is in the interest of your fellow pilot and your contribution would be greatly appreciated.
